CHANAKYA NATIONAL LAW UNIVERSITY
PATNA – 800 001

ABOUT SEMINAR:

The National Seminar on Feminine Jurisprudence and Gender Bias Laws in India will be a platform for all students and intellectuals from all over the country to come together and develop a better understanding of laws relating to Gender Justice, in India. It is known to all that the pragmatic precept varies from the vision and objectives of enacted laws, the seminar is being organised with the sole purpose of comprehending this polarity and its reasons. It is rightly said that no one can change the world in a day but everyone can do their part. This is a small initiative of CNLU to make this nation a better place to live in.

ABOUT THE THEME:

Feminist jurisprudence symbolizes diversity of philosophy and theory based on the political, economic, and social equality of sexes. All feminists believe that "women have continuously been oppressed or disadvantaged in comparison with men and such oppression or disadvantage is indeed illegitimate or unjustified". With its beginning in 1960's, feminist jurisprudence has influenced many debates on critical issues like sexual and domestic violence, inequality at the workplace and gender based discrimination. On the contrary there are gender specific laws which need amends- affecting rape, domestic violence, employment, reproductive rights and sexual harassment. Therefore making a worth analysis and discussion on them is a present day need. The renowned activist, Martin Luther King once said that the existence of law and order aims to ascertain justice but as soon as they fail in this purpose they become dangerously structured dams that obstruct and block the flow of societal progress. In other words, a law is appreciated only when it is compatible for ensuring justice. But when it seems that the concerned law is problematic and not fit for present social conditions, the voices for revision, amendment and new legislation get loud. Similar is the situation persisting with various provisions of the criminal laws in India. One of the key reasons is the archaic nature of the codified penal laws. There are various provisions in substantive as well as procedural laws, which are either ambiguous or not in accordance with present social demands etc. and therefore need to be amended.

This seminar aims to invite research paper and make critical discussion on coverage of feminine jurisprudence, gender discriminating laws and possible amendments to existing criminal laws.
